

Gold-Bears

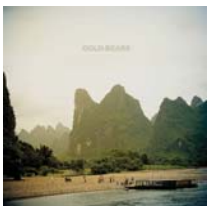

Distortion! Chaos! Love! Please don't be fooled by the cuteness of their name, Gold-Bears make energetic and noisy music overflowing with happiness and creativity, distorted guitars and simplistic drumming. However, if noisy crash-pop can also be beautifully dreamy, then that's how to best describe the Gold-Bears.

This twee punk group from Atlanta, Georgia lists bands as diverse as Boyracer, Rocketship, The Jesus and Mary Chain and The Mountain Goats as their influences and you can truly hear it. Their music comes out as an unusual cross-breed between all these - as well as The Shop Assistants, The Flatmates, the obscure This Poison! and The McTells, or Swedish flagship crash-pop band The Faintest Ideas - and it may sound odd, but the resulting bastard child is purely wonderful.

The songs on this amazing 7" will knock you to the floor and then pull you up, just to knock you over again. And as you lie there, all dizzy on your back, you'll see white and fluffy cloud formations in a baby blue sky and you'll be sure that very soon you'll enjoy everything you have ever dreamed of. Because that's what Gold-Bears do to you.

These four tracks represent an energy boost better than any vitamin or foul-tasting concoction. If you feel you've had enough of winter and darkness these tunes will speed you straight into the most wonderful spring. I promise, drop the needle and you will even smell the flowers!

Gold-Bears have previously released a 7" on Magic Marker Records and will release their first album on Slumberland later this year.
